

A long time ago, in Egypt there was a myth about Osiris and Isis. Osiris was the ruler of Egypt, he was a fair ruler, and everyone loved him, his parents were Geb and Nut. Isis was Osiris sister she was loving and caring. Set was Osiris's brother he was nothing like his brother and sister he was mean and horrid. Set planned a party to kill his brother so he brought a coffin to the party everyone tried to fit in it, but no one could except Osiris. Osiris went in it but before he could get out Set locked him in and threw it into the river Nile and the coffin drifted down the river. When Isis heard about what Set had done, she searched and searched for days she walked for miles on end. Finally, she found Osiris's body, but he had drowned. Sadly, she asked the god of death to bring him back to life. As soon as Set found out what Isis had done, he cut Osiris's body into 14 different pieces and spread them across Egypt. Set was horrid, mean and jealous. So as soon as Isis had found out what Set had done. As quick as she could she searched and searched again. Out of breath Isis finally found Osiris's body but it took a lot of time. So, Isis asked the god of death again to bandage him up, he did and he came back to life. So, Isis had a child to remember him by. Osiris couldn't stay for long, he soon passed away and became the king of the afterlife. Soon after Osiris died Horus their son fought set to the end.